

Acknowledgements

This publication is the result of the three-year research project 'Microstructures of Global Trade: East Asian Porcelain in the Collection of Augustus the Strong in the Context of the Museum Inventories of the 18th Century', conducted at the Porzellansammlung, Staatliche Kunstsammlungen Dresden (SKD). Prof. Dr. Ulrich Pietsch, former director of the Porzellansammlung, and Cora Würmell, curator of East Asian porcelain, SKD, were the driving forces behind the initiation and preparation of the project.

In conjunction with the research project, the Porzellansammlung hosted the international conference "Porcelain Circling the Globe. International Trading Structures and the East Asia Collection of Augustus the Strong (1670–1733)" on 13 and 14 June 2018.¹ The symposium focused on the international porcelain trade by private agents and was an important impetus for the completion of this publication. Both undertakings were only possible through the generous support of the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), which is why I would like to express my sincere gratitude to them for their substantial contributions.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. Julia Weber, director of the Porzellansammlung, who supported and guided this publication from the very beginning, and who lent a helping hand whenever necessary. For answering my questions on topics far beyond my own expertise, I am very thankful to Prof. Dr. Em. Christiaan Jörg (Leiden) for his wholehearted support. The manuscript benefitted from the careful and knowledgeable editing of Prof. Dr. Gilbert Lupfer, Agnes Matthias and Karolin Randhahn (SKD). Both the research project and the conference would never have been such a resounding success without the input of the staff of the Porzellansammlung. I therefore would like to express my sincere gratitude to my colleagues; Maria Geppert, Karsta Kiss-Haußmann, Magdalena Kozar, Anette Loesch, Sabine Peinelt-Schmidt, and Heike Ulbricht.

The assistance provided by the staff of the Saxon State Archives Dresden while compiling the source materials is greatly appreciated. Sabine Wilde (Dresden) was of immense help with the time-consuming comparison, transcription and scientific editing of the French sources. Dr. Jochen Vötsch (Dresden) kindly aided with deciphering the German documents.

Parts of chapters 7 and 8 have already been published in two academic journals (Simonis 2018; Simonis and Hüsgen, 2019). The author would like to thank Dr. Jan Hüsgen (Deutsches Zentrum für Kulturgutverluste) for the wonderful teamwork. Yasmin Karim (Düsseldorf) worked creative wonders with the design of both the conference logo and the publication layout. Last but not least, the author would like to thank Dr. Maria Effinger, Frank Krabbes and the staff at ARTbooks (Heidelberg University Publishing) for taking this project under their wings.