

Table of Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
1. Europe and the USA in Historical Perspective, 1776–2009	1
2. The Manichaeian Trap. American Perceptions of the German Empire, 1871–1945	19
3. The USA and the Weimar Republic, 1919–1933	45
4. Jacob Gould Schurman, Heidelberg University, and American-German Relations, 1878–1945	55
5. The Impact of the Great Depression on the U.S. Political System, 1933–1945	95
6. Germany in the Political Calculus of the United States, 1933–1945	115
7. The Continuity of Ambivalence. German Images of America, 1933–1945	133
8. Roosevelt and Hitler. Struggle for World Power, 1940–1941	153
9. Politics, Security, Economics, Culture, and Society. Dimensions of Transatlantic Relations during the Cold War, 1945–1990	163
10. International Relations after the Second World War. A New Understanding of the Cold War? (1945–1990)	209

11. The End of Double Containment. The Revolution of German Foreign Policy in Historical Perspective, 1990	225
12. Germany in International Politics, 1990–2006	235
13. The Americanization of the Holocaust. On the Possibility of Externalizing Evil and Perpetually Renewing One’s Mission	251
14. On The Way to Becoming an Imperial Hyperpower? The Manichaeen Trap has Struck Again – U.S. Foreign Policy after September 11, 2001	261
15. Is the USA an Imperial Power?	281
16. Obama, Trump, the Decline of an Imperial Democracy and U.S.-German Relations 2009–2021. An Essay	297
Subject Index	391
Index of Names	397
About the Author	403