

Inhaltsverzeichnis

Caroline Hamon und Jan Graefe Neue Aspekte zu Mahlsteinen in neolithischen Gesellschaften	7-8
Caroline Hamon, Jan Graefe New perspectives on querns in neolithic societies	9-10
Ivan Pavlů Dimensions of Grinding Stones Between Anatolia and Central Europe	11-22
Jan Graefe Trade and use of raw material for neolithic querns in north-western Germany	23-32
Britta Ramminger Quern requirement and raw material supply in Linearbandkeramik settlements of the Mörlener Bucht, NW Wetterau, Hesse	33-44
Caroline Hamon Lifecycle of a neolithic quern: limits and contribution of a combined technical and functional analysis on grinding tools	45-54
A. Ciarico, C. Conati Barbaro, C. Lemorini, I. M. Muntoni The role of grinding tools at Masseria Candelaro (southern Italy): an integrated approach of raw material, technological, use-wear and residues analysis	55-67
Cecilia Lidström Holmberg Grinding technologies, social relations and the becoming of the northernmost TRB	69-92
Sue Watts Object biography and its importance in furthering our understanding of the structured deposition of querns in Neolithic Britain	93-102