

LIST OF FIGURES

- Fig. 1. The NW neighbourhood of the archaeological site, where WQ3 is situated (adapted from A. Karnava, in Doumas 2007c, 37, fig. e).
- Fig. 2. Plan of NPP 74, opened in the interior of WQ3, with the exact locations of seals S1 and S2 found on the ground floor (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, after drawing by M. Hamawi).
- Fig. 3. Ground storey of WQ3 during excavation, with a pithos at the SW corner of the room; the arrow pointing to the N is placed on top of the area where seal S1 was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 4. Ground storey of WQ3 during excavation; the content of the room in situ (the pithos is already extracted from the SW corner) (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 5. NPP 26NE: opening in the bedrock leading to an underground chamber (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 6. NPP 26NE: Wall Delta inside the underground chamber; at its S extremity a foundation or remains of an earlier wall (Wall Delta/a) are visible (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 7. NPP 26NE: diagnostic pottery from locus 26N024/NE, in which seal S3 was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 8. NPP 67: the floor of the MC room; the marked area is the part of the floor to be removed for the installation of the metal column for the new shelter (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 9. NPP 67: the floor area, where seal S4 was found, during excavation (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 10. West House, ground floor: Room 5 with its contents in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Thera VI, pl. 43b, where the room is shown at the end of the 1972 season; Doumas 2007b, 35, fig. 12).
- Fig. 11. West House, ground floor: Rooms 4 and 5, drawing made before the 1976 cleaning; the rooms are shown at the end of the 1972 season (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by K. Chatziaslani; Praktika 1976, 313, fig. 2).
- Fig. 12. Cenotaph Square: trial trench under Daimonon Street between Xeste 5 and the square's terrace (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Praktika 1993, pl. 104a).
- Figs. 13–14. Delta-North: the main staircase (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Thera IV, pl. 14a–b).
- Fig. 15. Delta-West: plan of ground level of D1a, end of the 1993 excavation season. The encircled area to the E of the pier indicates the floor 'cavity' from where S10 was retrieved. (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, after drawing by V. Isaakidou – M. Fotia – S. Epelly; Papadimitriou-Grammenou 2008, 140, fig. 1).
- Fig. 16. Delta-West: D1a, E section (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – A. Kambouris).
- Fig. 17. Delta-West: D9.1, ground level with pottery in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Thera VII, pl. 18b).
- Fig. 18. Delta-West: plan of NPP 21, showing the state in which D9.1 had been left in 1973 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by Z. Gouli).

- Fig. 19. Delta-South: D16, with (approximate) findspots of clusters of objects based on information from the excavation daybook (adapted from Palyvou 2005, 72, fig. 90; image courtesy of INSTAP Academic Press, Philadelphia, PA, USA).
- Fig. 20. Delta-South: D16, NE corner (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 21. Xeste 3, as revealed after the 1973 excavation season (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Thera VII, plan B).
- Fig. 22. Square of the Benches: plan of the stone piles covering the square. PP 47 (marked by an X inside a rectangle) is exactly to the S of the wall dividing the staircase ('Corridor 5') from Room 6 of Xeste 3 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by V. Isaakidou; Praktika 1993, 171, fig. 3).
- Fig. 23. Xeste 3: plan, ground floor and upper floor (Palyvou 2005, 55, fig. 62; image courtesy of INSTAP Academic Press, Philadelphia, PA, USA).
- Fig. 24. Section of NPP 44A, situated to the S of Building Iota Beta (IB) and Iota Delta (ID) (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by E. Damigou).
- Fig. 25. NPP 44A: interior of the ground level room on 17/2/2000, the day when Petschaft S15 was found. The arrow and scale rest on the surface of the bedrock, which was revealed in the E section of the room (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Figs. 26, 27. NPP 44A: pottery from Layer VI where Petschaft S15 was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photos by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 28. 'Première maison d'Acrotiri' (sketch by H. Gorceix [?], Mémoire de MM. Gorceix et Mamet © bpk-RMN-Grand Palais/Anaïs Boucher/Paris, Académie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres; a version of this plan appears in Fouqué 1879, 109).
- Fig. 29. Wall painting fragments from the 'première maison d'Acrotiri' where seal S16 was reportedly found (Manuscrits de l'université de Nancy/UL, Manuscrits d'Emile Burnouf, Burnouf 45, Direction de la Documentation de l'Université de Lorraine/BU droit; Furtwängler – Lösche 1886, 19 nos. 73, 74, pl. XII 73–74).
- Fig. 30. Pendant vertical plate S3, Petschaft S15, discoid S5, amygdaloid S4; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 31. Akrotiri lentoids, faces and sections; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 32. Disc S14 faces and sections; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 33. Seal S16: sketches by H. Gorceix (?) (left) and É. Burnouf (right); scale: c. 3:2 (Mémoire de MM. Gorceix et Mamet © bpk-RMN-Grand Palais/Mathieu Rabeau/Paris, Académie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres; Manuscrits de l'université de Nancy/UL, Emile Burnouf 45).
- Fig. 34. The locally-produced seals from Akrotiri S7, S8, S10 and S13; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 35. Cross-hatching on pendant vertical plate S3, centred-circles and hatching on discoid S5, 'star of David' on Petschaft S15 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 36. 'Talismanic' style and affiliates: lentoid S2, fish tête-bêche; lentoid S1, agrimi; lentoid S11, spray motif; amygdaloid S4, fish (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 37. The effaced disc-shaped lentoid S9 with remains of centred-circles with central borings and lines (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 38. An effaced standing quadruped in right profile on lentoid S6 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).

- Fig. 39. Griffin/sphinx and dolphin on lentoid S12 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 40. A male figure on the soft stone disc S14 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 41. Local production: disc S7, unidentifiable; pendant vertical plate S8, oblique parallel lines; pendant vertical plate S10, lines and borings; stamp S13, cross-hatching (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 42. Minute nodule pieces from Room D18b; they do not join to any of the numbered nodules, therefore no catalogue numbers were given (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 43. Delta-East: plan of ground (left) and first (right) storeys (Palyvou 2005, 92, fig. 126; image courtesy of INSTAP Academic Press, Philadelphia, PA, USA).
- Fig. 44. Delta-East: Room D19, the entrance-main staircase (up right), its adjacent Room D18 (middle back) and a part of Room D21 (middle front) before the excavation of 1993–95; the retaining wall (up left), was a modern addition (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 45. Delta-East: Room D18a, W end, with contents on the floor (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 46. Delta-East: Room D18a, W end. The interior of the asaminthos, the outline of which is visible, contained a bronze dagger, a sherd from the clay vessel itself and two fragments of Linear A tablets (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 47. Delta-East: Room D18b on the day the first nodule was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 48. Nodules N13, N14 and N15 found complete (although not intact), tops; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 49. NPP 64: whole pots in situ from the PP as well as the NPP investigation (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos; Praktika 1999, pl. 121a).
- Fig. 50. NPP 64, middle of the W side: a bronze vessel in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 51. NPP 64, SW corner: three-handled pithamphora, bronze circular pans with bronze beam, two disc weights of stone and lead, all in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 52. NPP 64, SW corner: double strainer jug in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis; Praktika 1999, pl. 121b).
- Fig. 53. Some flat-based Akrotiri nodules, all from Room D18b except for N74, a direct sealing from Room D18a. N18 and N24 are among the largest in size, N48 and N50 are among the smallest in size. All four attest to the combination of two seal impressions each; N2 and N9 bear one seal impression each; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 54. Flat-based nodule N18. Centre: section; upper right: seal impression (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392); upper left: seal impression (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 393); lower right: (modern) cast of the sealed object; lower middle: imprint of the sealed object, as left on the clay; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 55. Flat-based nodules and manufacturing sequence: N32, with string exits from inside the clay (3/4 view); N2, one-seal flat-based nodule with layers of clay (section); N38, two-seal flat-based nodule with layers of clay (section); N33, two-seal flat-based nodule with layers of clay (side); N44, two-seal flat-based nodule with layers of clay (side); N40, two-seal flat-based nodule with layers of clay (top); scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 56. Sections of nodules N6, N15, N39, N48 and the seal impressions they bear; scale 1:1 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).

- Fig. 57. Single-hole hanging nodule N69 with the seal impression it bears; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 58. Two-hole hanging nodule N70; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 59. Direct sealing N74 from Akrotiri; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 60. Direct sealing from Agia Triada (HMs1686 = CMS II,6 no. 35); scale 3:2 (Archaeological Museum of Herakleion © Ministry of Culture and Sports/Archaeological Receipts Fund, photos by A. Karnava)
- Fig. 61. Nodus N75 with the seal impression it bears; scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 62. The array of seal motifs attested on the clay nodules from Rooms D18a–b and NPP 64; scale 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 63. Seal impression with a chariot scene; attested on nodules N1–N3 from Akrotiri (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 391), two nodules from Agia Triada (HMs 516, 591 = CMS II,6 no. 19) and four nodules from Sklavokambos (HMs 632–635 = CMS II,6 no. 260); scale 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive/Archaeological Museum of Herakleion).
- Fig. 64. Seals and seal impressions with chariot motifs: CMS II,8 no. 193 (Knossos Temple Repositories); V no. 585 (Kazarma, Argolid); I no. 229 (Vapheio, Lakonia); scale 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 65. Seal impression with a bull-leaping motif (left: CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392; right: drawing adapted by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 66. Different seal impressions with bull-leaping motifs (from top left: CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392; II,6 nos. 41, 42, 256, 257, 258; II,7 nos. 34, 35, 36, 37, 38; II,8 nos. 221, 222, 223, 224, 225; CMS V Suppl. 1A nos. 171, 172; II,6 nos. 43/161/259/II,7 no. 39; II,6 nos. 44/162/255); scale 1:1 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 67. Seal impressions and a seal with bull-leaping/grappling motif (from left: CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 395; VI no. 181; II,6 nos. 39, 40; I no. 305); scale 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 68. Seal impression with the motif of a couchant bull (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 398) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 69. Seal impression with the motif of a lioness attacking a bull (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 401; II,7 no. 102; II,1 no. 419; II,8 no. 362; II,6 no. 234); scale 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 70. Seal motifs with buildings and animals (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 404; I nos. 119, 292; II,8 no. 256; I no. 123); scale 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 71. Seal impression with the motif of fighting dogs (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 393) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 72. Seal impression with the motif of a pair of dogs (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 396) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 73. Seal impression with the motif of flying birds (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 405) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 74. Seal impression with the motif of a lion and griffin (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 402) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 75. Seal impression with the motif of heraldic griffins/sphinxes (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 403) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 76. Seal impression on nodulus N75, running lion/griffin/dog (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 77. Seal impression with the motif of a procession (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 394) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 78. Seal impression with the motif of a man (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 399) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 79. Seal impression with the motif of a scene at a tree (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 400) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 80. Seal impression with a ‘tectonic’ motif (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 397) (CMS Archive).

- Fig. 81. Delta-North: Room D5–D4 and the main staircase during excavation in 1970 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 82. Delta-North: Room D4, the a-re-sa-na group pottery in situ (Akrotiri Excavations Archives; Thera IV, pl. 1a).
- Fig. 83. Delta-North: Room D4, the a-re-sa-na group pottery in situ, detail (Akrotiri Excavations Archives).
- Fig. 84. Plan of NPP 64A with exact findspot of rim I2 to scale (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by E. Damigou – K. Peleki, rim drawing and arrow added by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 85. Pottery sherds from the debris in which rim I2 was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 86. NPP 62: wall (SW–NE) with window belonging to a building to the NE of Xeste 4 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 87. NPP 62: debris to the N of a building situated to the NE of Xeste 4; photo taken on the day I3 was found (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 88. NPP 62: pottery from the locus in which I3 belonged (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 89. Discoid loomweight I1; scale 2:3 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 90. Stamped and inscribed pithos rim I2; scale 1:3 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, drawing by A. Kontonis; Karnava – Nikolakopoulou 2005, 218, fig. 3a).
- Fig. 91. Rim I2, with detail of a seal impression on the vertical rim surface (Akrotiri Excavations Archives, photo by C. Papanikolopoulos – D. Sakatzis).
- Fig. 92. Clay object I3, probably a spherical loomweight; scale 2:3 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 93. Impression on discoid loomweight I1 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 94. Multiple impressions of the same seal on pithos rim I2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 95. Impression on the probable spherical loomweight I3 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive).
- Fig. 96. Sealings from the Knossos ‘Hieroglyphic Deposit’: two flat-based nodules (with impressions of: a = CMS II,8 no. 376; d = II,8 no. 375); one one-hole hanging nodule (b, with impression of CMS II,8 no. 157); one two-hole hanging nodule (c, with impression of CMS II,8 no 286); one nodulus (e, with impression of CMS II,8 no. 33) (Evans 1921a, 273, fig. 202).
- Fig. 97. Seal impressions with ‘monstrous’ iconography from Zakros House A (from left: CMS II,7 nos. 127, 124, 134) (Hogarth 1902, 79, figs. 8–10).
- Fig. 98. Three single-hole hanging nodules from Agia Triada with the impression of the same seal; (HMs 556/1–3 = CMS II,6 no. 143; Archaeological Museum of Herakleion © Ministry of Culture and Sports/Archaeological Receipts Fund, photos by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 99. Administrative documents from Gournia (with impressions of CMS II,6 nos. 161 (4), 160 (5), 157 (6), 158 (7); left: CMS Archive; right: Hawes et al. 1908, 54, fig. 30; courtesy of the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology).
- Fig. 100. The Sklavokambos ‘villa’; the findspots of sealings are marked with triangles (flat-based nodules) and a cross (noduli) (Hallager 1996, 71, fig. 27; image courtesy of E. Hallager).
- Fig. 101. A unique flat-based nodule from Sklavokambos with impressions of four different seals; scale: 3:2 (HMs 642 = CMS II,6 nos. 267, 268, 270, 269) (CMS Archive).

- Fig. 102. Twenty-six flat-based nodules from the deposit in Katré Street, Chania, with a single impression each executed by the same seal (ChM 1501–1526 = CMS V Suppl. 1A no. 175; Archaeological Museum of Chania © Ministry of Culture and Sports/Archaeological Receipts Fund, photo by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 103. Nodules from Gournia: HMs 101 (top), impressions from the same ring (now CMS II,6 nos. 43/161/259/II,7 no. 39) on sealings at Agia Triada, Sklavokambos, Zakros and Gournia; HMs 102 (bottom), impressions from the same ring (now CMS II,6 nos. 44/162/255) on sealings at Agia Triada, Sklavokambos and Gournia (Betts 1967, 29, fig. 1).
- Fig. 104. Seal impressions CMS II,7, nos. 117, 119 and 151, all attested together on fourteen flat-based nodules from Zakros (HMs 10/1, 3–6, 9–15, 17, OAM AE 1199m); and seal impressions CMS II,7, nos. 118, 120 and 152 attested together on three flat-based nodules from Zakros (HMs 10/7, 16, OAM AE 1199w) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 105. Seal impressions from Kato Zakros, House A: CMS II,7, nos. 16 and 37 attested on eleven flat-based nodules (HMs 17/1, 4, 5, 12, 17/29, 18–20, 27, 31, 33); CMS II,7 nos. 16 and 38 attested on flat-based nodule HMs 17/15; CMS II,7 nos. 16 or 17 and 37 attested on flat-based nodule HMs 37/1; CMS II,7 nos. 17 and 38 attested on 18 flat-based nodules (HMs 17/2, 3, 8–11, 13, 14, 16, 17, 21, 22, 24–26, OAM AE 1199p, 1199z, without inv. no.), but also on three two-hole hanging nodules (HMs 17/6, 7, 34) (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 106. Impressions of four different rings, the multiple attestations of which were found in different sites in Crete and, now, Akrotiri (after Krzyszkowska 2005a, 190 nos. 368–371; image courtesy of O. Krzyszkowska).
- Fig. 107. Clay Pastes A–C attested in the Akrotiri nodules (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive, photos by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 108. The nine seals that had participated in six different pairs to stamp the majority of the Akrotiri flat-based nodules (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392 in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 no. 393 in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 nos. 394, 404, 395, 396 in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 nos. 397, 398, 399); scale: 3:2 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 109. Two different ways of flat-based nodule preparation: N18, seals stamped perpendicularly to the wrapped string; N48, seals stamped parallel to the wrapped string. Depicted are the tops of the nodules (top) and the casts of the folded leather underneath the nodules (bottom); scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive, photos by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 110. Complete flat-based nodules of two different sizes: large-sized N18, N24; small-sized N48, N50; scale: 3:2 (Akrotiri Excavations Archives/CMS Archive, photos by A. Karnava).
- Fig. 111. Two groups of flat-based nodules and their respective seal impressions: ‘Group 1’ (CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392 used single-handedly and in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 no. 393 used in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 nos. 394, 404); ‘Group 2’ (V Suppl. 3 nos. 395, 396 used in two different pairs; V Suppl. 3 nos. 397, 398, 399, 403, 405); scale: 1:1 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 112. Agia Triada pairs of administrators: ‘first rank’ administrators CMS II,6 nos. 15, 19, 82 and 89 stamped together with ‘second rank’ administrators II, 6 nos. 4, 41, 121 and 55 respectively); scale: 1:1 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 113. Zakros pairs of administrators: ‘first rank’ administrators CMS II,7 nos. 7, 15, 70 and 110 stamped together with ‘second rank’ administrators II,7 nos. 11, 64, 244 and 116 respectively; ‘first rank’ CMS II,7 no. 33 stamped together with two ‘second rank’ administrators II,7 nos. 41 and 51; ‘first rank’ CMS II,7 no. 99 stamped together with three ‘second rank’ administrators II,7 nos. 11, 31 and 81. Since ‘second rank’ administrators CMS II,7 nos. 31 and 81 stamped also with II,7 no. 215, we assume that II,7 no. 215 is also a ‘first rank’ administrator, although no single-handed impressions of this seal are found; scale: 1:1 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 114. A ‘first rank’/‘dominant’ administrator CMS V Suppl. 3 no. 392, and his/her collaborators, 'second rank'/'subordinate' administrators V Suppl. 3 nos. 393, 394; scale: 1:1 (CMS Archive).

- Fig. 115. Three 'first rank'/'dominant' administrators CMS V Suppl. 3 nos. 391, 392 and 404 and two 'second rank'/'subordinate' administrators V Suppl. 3 nos. 393, 394 among the Akrotiri flat-based nodules; scale: 1:1 (CMS Archive).
- Fig. 116. Knossos: reconstruction of a wall painting fragment, depicting a man who participates in a procession wearing a seal around his wrist (Evans 1928a, pl. XII).
- Fig. 117. Tell El-Dab'a (Avaris): reconstruction of a wall painting fragment, depicting a bull-leaper wearing a seal around his wrist (Bietak et al. 2007, 95 no. A13; image courtesy of the authors and the Verlag der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften).
- Fig. 118. Linear A inscriptions from Akrotiri and comparable palaeographical evidence from Cretan sites (adapted and corrected from Karnava 2007–08, 406, fig. 8).
- Fig. 119. A specimen of a typical Neopalatial Linear A clay tablet from Agia Triada measuring  $5.1 \times 5.7 \times 0.7$  cm (GORILA I no. HT 35; image courtesy of the ÉfA/J.-P. Olivier).
- Fig. 120. The oldest papyri discovered so far in Egypt dating to the reign of Khufu (Fourth Dynasty) (Tallet – Marouard 2014, 9, fig. 12; image courtesy of Pierre Tallet and Gregory Marouard).
- Fig. 121. A leather document sent by Arshama, an Achaemenid prince (late fifth century BC, Egypt; image © Bodleian Library, University of Oxford, 2018, Pell. Aram. IX. int./ext.).
- Fig. 122. A leather document from the Khalili collection, found closed under its sealing, (right) and opened for a photograph (left) (Naveh – Shaked 2012, 187–91 no. C2; also, Khalili Collections, Aramaic Documents no. IA20).