

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The co-directors of this project would like to thank the Institut National des Sciences de l'Archéologie et du Patrimoine (INSAP, Morocco) and Protars P32/09-CNRST (Morocco) for sponsoring and funding this research. Other major funding contributions were provided by NERC (EFCHED NER/T/S/2002/00700 and RESET NE/E015670/1), the Leverhulme Trust (F/08 735/F), the British Academy, as well as by grants from Oxford University (Fell Fund, Boise and Meyerstein) and the Calleva Foundation. The Natural History Museum (London) provided support and covered costs of Landrover transport for the early years of the project. We are also grateful to colleagues who have worked closely with us and contributed to the project. They include Ed Hodge (at the time at Bristol University – U-Series dating), Simon Parfitt (Natural History Museum – palaeontology), Ian Candy (Royal Holloway – dating), Dustin White (Southampton University – tephrochronology), Simon Blockley (Royal Holloway – tephrochronology), Cath Price (freelance – picking and sorting bone samples) and three co-investigators of the EFCHED project: Kathy Willis (Oxford University), Robert Hedges (Oxford University) and Chris Stringer (Natural History Museum). Photographs on site were taken by Ian Cartwright (Oxford University) who also provided many of the object images that appear in this volume. We are grateful to Alan Keohane for his kind permission to use the image on the front cover. Alison Wilkins has assisted with improving graphics production throughout the text. We were also helped on site by numerous friends, archaeologists and student volunteers from the UK as well as Morocco, including Michael Athanson, Silvia Bello, Peter Berridge, Paul Berridge, Catherine Collcutt, Jessica Davidson, Emma Devine, Mark Dodd, Caitlyn Farrants, Keith Faxon, Simon Gannon, Mark Gridley, Richard Jennings, Sarah Jones, Walter Mehlem, Cólín Ó'Drisceoil, Anna Oh, Nicholas Perrault, Chris Reese, Alison Roberts, Angela Vaughan, Dustin White, Laura Winwood and Victoria Womersley. We gratefully acknowledge the help of Moroccan colleagues particularly Mustafa Mani (site logistics), Habiba Atki and Ahmed Margaa, while further assistance was provided by a loyal group of workmen from the village of Tafoughalt, especially Ahmed Gharrafi and Mohammed Mansour, as well as Nasseerdin, Hamid, Abderahim, Ossi and Achraf. The project also gave valuable opportunities for doctoral and masters students from Oxford and Reading universities to undertake studies on the lithics, land snails, isotopes, phytoliths and various dating projects (AMS and OSL); they comprise Steven Ward (2007), Emma Elder (2010), Anna Oh (2011), Sharen Lee (2012), LaineClark-Balzan (2013), Sarah Jones (2013), Victoria Taylor (2014), Josh Hogue (2014), Amy Jeffrey (2016), Faidra Katsi (2016), Abigail Desmond (2017) and Nic Perrault (2018). In addition to the contributors to this volume and other individuals mentioned above, thanks are due to Peter Ditchfield and Sarah Jones (Chapter 3), Stuart Black, Ingrid Brack, Gundula Muldner and Rob Hosfield (Chapter 8), Martin Street and Nicole Viehöver (Chapter 9.1), R. Pedersen (Chapter 9.2), Harry Taylor and Mark Adams (Chapter 10), and Alison Roberts (Chapter 12). We would also like to thank El Hassan Talbi for his help in the raw materials survey.
