

Contents

| | |
|--|-----------|
| Introduction | 17 |
| International diplomacy in the Late Bronze Age | 17 |
| The structure of the dissertation | 19 |
| The historical context: The internationalism of the Late Bronze Age, audience gifts and a brotherhood of kingship | 21 |
| Egypt and the empire builders of the New Kingdom | 24 |
| The criteria for an international style in Late Bronze Age visual culture | 27 |
| | |
| I An international style | 33 |
| | |
| 1 The theoretical evolution of an international style | 35 |
| 1.1 Intrusive iconographic motifs and foreign exotica from the dawn of Egyptology | 35 |
| 1.2 Beyond Egypt: The problem of ‘Phoenician’ ivory and bronze | 45 |
| 1.2.1 Nimrud | 45 |
| 1.2.2 Mycenae and Enkomi | 47 |
| 1.3 Scholarly debate: The early twentieth century | 49 |
| 1.4 The dialogue over the origins of motifs: Post World War II | 58 |
| 1.4.1 Helene Kantor | 59 |
| 1.4.2 An ‘international style’, William Kelly Simpson | 61 |
| 1.4.3 Richard David Barnett | 63 |
| 1.4.4 Wolfgang Helck | 65 |
| 1.4.5 William Stevenson Smith | 65 |
| 1.4.6 Fritz Schachermeyr | 66 |
| 1.4.7 Then we acquired archaeological evidence for prestige exchange | 68 |
| 1.4.8 Severe and Ornate Styles: Janice Crowley | 69 |
| 1.4.9 Aegaeum 18 | 71 |
| 1.4.10 Marian Feldman and Diplomacy by Design | 72 |
| 1.5 Evidence from Eastern Mediterranean palatial archaeology | 74 |
| 1.6 Trans-cultural theory in the twenty-first century: Hybridity and entanglement | 76 |
| 1.7 Discussion: The evolution of an ‘international style?’ | 78 |
| | |
| 2 International visual idiom | 81 |
| 2.1 Visual concepts and terminology | 81 |
| 2.1.1 ‘Art for art’s sake’, but not in antiquity | 82 |

| | | |
|----------|---|------------|
| 2.1.2 | Style | 83 |
| 2.1.3 | Cultural style/canonical form | 84 |
| 2.1.4 | Visual idiom | 85 |
| 2.2 | Visual semantic and iconography | 85 |
| 2.2.1 | Symbolic entities and semiotics | 85 |
| 2.2.2 | Pictogram and script | 87 |
| 2.2.3 | The problem of visual hybridity | 88 |
| 2.3 | Visual semantic for an international style | 90 |
| 2.3.1 | Can we talk about canonical styles? | 90 |
| 2.3.2 | The features of the international style | 93 |
| 2.3.3 | Themes: Animal combat versus pastoral scenes | 95 |
| 2.3.4 | ‘Animal style’ | 96 |
| 2.4 | The international style: Themes and idiom in context | 97 |
| 2.4.1 | The animal combat: The actors | 98 |
| 2.4.2 | Emblematic scenes: Caprids or sphinxes flanking a sacred tree | 120 |
| 2.4.3 | Voluted sacred tree | 127 |
| 2.4.4 | Ornament: Decorative patterns and vegetal fill | 130 |
| 2.5 | Discussion | 143 |
| 3 | Objects of international prestige | 145 |
| 3.1 | International materials and technology | 147 |
| 3.2 | Military hardware | 150 |
| 3.3 | Prestige materials | 153 |
| 3.3.1 | Ivory and bone | 153 |
| 3.3.2 | Metallurgy | 154 |
| 3.3.3 | Manipulating metal colour | 157 |
| 3.3.4 | The fabric of prestige: Woven decorated textiles | 160 |
| 3.3.5 | Things that shine from within, precious stone and vitreous technologies | 162 |
| 3.3.6 | Frit, polychrome faience and true glass | 163 |
| 3.4 | Human Mobility: Princesses, princes, diplomats, artisans and entourages | 166 |
| 3.5 | Discussion | 170 |
| 4 | International Style beyond Egypt | 171 |
| 4.1 | The international artefacts | 171 |
| 4.2 | The Mycenaean Aegean | 171 |
| 4.3 | The Levant | 176 |
| 4.3.1 | Ugarit | 177 |
| 4.3.2 | Byblos | 180 |
| 4.3.3 | Megiddo | 182 |
| 4.3.4 | Lachish | 183 |
| 4.3.5 | Tells Farah and Mique | 185 |
| 4.4 | Syria | 187 |
| 4.4.1 | Fakhariya | 187 |

| | | |
|-------|---------------------------------|-----|
| 4.4.2 | Qatna | 188 |
| 4.4.3 | Ebla | 190 |
| 4.4.4 | Sakka | 191 |
| 4.5 | Cyprus/Alašiya | 192 |
| 4.6 | The other Great Kings | 198 |

II Egypt 201

5 International idiom on artefacts from Egyptian contexts 203

| | | |
|-------|---|-----|
| 5.1 | Egypt: The Tell Basta treasure | 203 |
| 5.1.1 | Vases/jugs | 204 |
| 5.1.2 | Patera | 207 |
| 5.1.3 | Repoussé bowls | 208 |
| 5.1.4 | Discussion | 210 |
| 5.2 | Some rejections from current discussion | 212 |
| 5.3 | Egypt: International miscellanea | 215 |
| 5.3.1 | Metal: Bronze and copper | 216 |
| 5.3.2 | Ivory and bone | 219 |
| 5.3.3 | Wood | 221 |
| 5.3.4 | Ceramic and stone | 228 |
| 5.3.5 | Faience and glass | 229 |
| 5.4 | Discussion: Visual homogeneity | 234 |

6 The tomb of Tutankhamen 237

| | | |
|-------|---|-----|
| 6.1 | Royal tombs | 238 |
| 6.2 | KV 62. The tomb of Tutankhamen | 239 |
| 6.2.1 | Chariot and Harness Equipment | 240 |
| 6.2.2 | Ebony inlaid chest (Carter 551 and 540) | 252 |
| 6.2.3 | Calcite unguent jar 211 | 257 |
| 6.2.4 | Linen tunic 367j | 260 |
| 6.2.5 | Ceremonial daggers 256dd and 256k | 265 |
| 6.3 | Additional artefacts from KV 62 | 271 |
| 6.3.1 | Furniture: Child's chair/throne 039 | 271 |
| 6.3.2 | Gold sheet openwork plaque 050tt | 274 |
| 6.3.3 | Gold openwork buckle/plaque 044a(1) | 275 |
| 6.3.4 | Staves, sceptres and hunting sticks | 278 |
| 6.3.5 | Ceremonial hunting bows and bowcase | 283 |
| 6.3.6 | Adornment | 289 |
| 6.4 | Discussion | 291 |

7 Beyond Tutankhamen 293

| | | |
|-------|--|-----|
| 7.1 | Eighteenth Dynasty royal and elite tombs | 293 |
| 7.2 | Royal tombs | 293 |
| 7.2.1 | KV 57: Horemhab (1320–1295 BCE) | 294 |

| | | |
|--------|---|-----|
| 7.2.2 | KV 58: Tutankhamen–Ay? (1324–1320 BCE) | 295 |
| 7.2.3 | Amarna royal tombs, Akhenaten (1352–1336 BCE) | 297 |
| 7.2.4 | KV 55: Tiye? (1389–1336 BCE) | 298 |
| 7.2.5 | KV/WV 22: Amenhotep III (1389–1352 BCE) | 299 |
| 7.2.6 | KV 43: Thutmose IV (1400–1390 BCE) | 300 |
| 7.2.7 | KV 35: Amenhotep II (1425–1400 BCE) | 302 |
| 7.2.8 | KV 34: Thutmose III (1479–1425 BCE) | 305 |
| 7.2.9 | KV 20: Hatshepsut (1479–1457 BCE) | 306 |
| 7.2.10 | Thutmose I (1503–1491 BCE) and Amenhotep I (1524–1503 BCE) | 307 |
| 7.2.11 | Seventeenth Dynasty tombs | 308 |
| 7.2.12 | Discussion | 313 |
| 7.3 | International idiom from Eighteenth Dynasty elite tombs | 314 |
| 7.3.1 | KV 46: Yuya and Tuya (1390–1352 BCE) | 314 |
| 7.3.2 | KV 36: Maihirperi (1425–1390 BCE) | 318 |
| 7.3.3 | Hatiay and Siamen (ca. 1350 BCE) | 321 |
| 7.4 | The ‘professional upper middle class’ of Deir el Medina | 323 |
| 7.4.1 | TT 8: Kha and Merit (1425–1350 BCE) | 323 |
| 7.4.2 | TT 1: Sennedjem and Ijneferty (1310–1250 BCE) | 325 |
| 7.5 | Discussion | 327 |
| 7.5.1 | Royal palaces | 328 |
| 7.5.2 | The volute flower | 331 |
| 7.5.3 | The queen’s flagellum: The ‘lily sceptre’ | 334 |
| 7.5.4 | The owner of KV 62, Neferneferuaten or Tutankhamen? | 336 |
| 7.5.5 | The royal chariot | 339 |

8 Conclusion 341

| | | |
|-------|--|-----|
| 8.1 | New Kingdom Egyptian objects in an international style | 341 |
| 8.1.1 | Royal letters and royal gifts | 341 |
| 8.1.2 | Historical context | 343 |
| 8.1.3 | Theory and history | 346 |
| 8.1.4 | ‘International idiom’ | 347 |
| 8.2 | The international artefacts | 348 |
| 8.3 | The international style from Egypt | 349 |
| 8.3.1 | KV 62, Tutankhamen | 351 |
| 8.3.2 | Royal and elite tombs | 353 |
| 8.4 | Royal rhetoric | 356 |
| 8.4.1 | Prestige media and social status | 357 |
| 8.5 | Close | 359 |